

A CONFERENCE ON

CORPORATE MANSLAUGHTER, DIRECTORS' DUTIES' AND SAFETY ENFORCEMENT

Monday 19 November 2007 • 9.30am – 5.00pm Hamilton House, Mabledon Place, London WC1

The conference looks at the likely impact of the Corporate Manslaughter Bill on private and public organizations and the way the new offence will be investigated and prosecuted. It will also consider "directors' duties" — whether the new voluntary guidance will have a positive impact on health and safety, or whether the law should be changed as the Government promised in 2000 that it would. In addition the conference will consider what impact the Regulatory Enforcement and Sanctions will have on activities carried out by the HSE and Local Authorities.

SPEAKERS INCLUDE

- Lord McKenzie of Luton, Health and Safety Minister
- Brendan Barber, General Secretary, TUC
- · Michael Large, Vice-Chair, Institute of Directors
- Richard Lissack QC, Outer Temple Chambers
- Det. Chief Supt. Mark Smith, British Transport Police
